Fourteen Dogs Poisoned

The town has been startled somewhat at the large number of dogs that have been poisoned this last week, no less than fourteen having succumbed or nearly so. Most of the dogs have been valuable ones and others were pets, notably Mr. Charley Peterson's pet pug dog that never harmed a person. A great deal of indignation is being expressed at this wholesale poisoning and if the guilty parties are caught, it will go hard with them. There is already a reward of $25 for information leading to the discovery of said parties.

Cheap Lumber

There is quality in lumber, do not forget that. Poor lumber means a cold crude house, difficult to live in, difficult to rent, and difficult to sell. I carry cheap lumber suitable for some purposes, but the kind you want in your house I make a specialty of. My best grades I store in weather proof sheds. Did you ever consider how much your carpenter time cost you to work up poor lumber. I am not at all versing any cheap sale but I sell cheap always. Quick sales and small profits is my motto. Have you seen that shiplap I am selling at $20.00 per M? Have you seen those boards at $18.00 per M? I carry a complete stock of lumber. Anything you want you will find in my yard. No cash deposits required. You get what you see and buy and both quality and satisfaction is guaranteed.

If you contemplate building, call and see me. I can figure on that plan and tell you what it will cost any time.

A great deal of indignation has been expressed in the last few days in town in regard to the wholesale poisoning of dogs that has taken place. This practice calls for strong condemnation, and no doubt if the guilty parties are caught some action will be taken against them. It is stated that some of the dogs so poisoned have recovered after a great deal of suffering had been caused. The person or persons responsible for this dastardly action may have had some good reason for destroying one or two dogs but when it comes to making way with them wholesale, then the action is not only cruel but is destroying property belonging to other people which calls for the sternest measures to find the guilty parties.

A gentleman who does a great deal of driving over the country roads made the remark last week that the roadmasters in the different districts could do good work now by having some one look over the bad spots in the roads at the present time and mending them as they are easily seen and easily remedied. In some places just a ploughed furrow in the ditches would carry off a lot of the water laying on these roads and a little work done now along the lines of drainage would help a lot when the wet weather comes.

An electric light proposition is again being made by a certain party in town. It is to be hoped that something in this line will materialize. The time is opportune as it is early in the year and if action is taken at once we could get the lights by next fall. There is no question but that something along this line should be taken up. A town the size of Didsbury with its other advantages and without some system of lighting at night is out of date and is dangerous as well in the winter time.

Dead Animals Must Be Buried

The Council met in the Council Chamber on Monday night. Mayor Atkins in the chair, Councillors St. Clair, Osmond, Good, Hunsperger, Moyer, Clerk Reid, Solicitor Patterson present. A. Asst. Com. Liesemer. The actual motions of the meeting were few but there was a good deal of discussion on the dog poisoning question, placing dead animals on the nuisance ground without destroying them, the King Edward street sidewalk matter and other things which took up considerable time of the Council. The following bills were passed: D. C. Corlitt, $15.42; Stark & Movers, $12.30.

Several dead horses have been dumped on the nuisance ground and not buried. The constable was instructed to carry out the by-law and make the parties who hauled these animals there bury them at once or take proceedings against them.

Dr. Lasker was present and stated that he would like the council to settle about the sidewalk in east Didsbury. After a good deal of discussion the matter was again left over till the next meeting, the Secretary-Treasurer in the meantime to ascertain what amount was paid to others for sidewalks taken over at the time the village was incorporated. The Council then adjourned.

faith inquired, "Then one passed her hand over her father's sleeve."

"I do believe you have gone and bought a new overcoat! You aren't going to be sick, are you, father? Are you feeling all right in your mind?"

"Your mother made me promise that I would get one as soon as I reached the city," said Malcolm, in low whisper. "It only cost $8.50. That was one reason I was late getting around to the Fulton's. The train was delayed by an accident."

"Eight dollars and a half?" muttered Faith with some indignation. But the thought of the father and his love for her that had brought him to the city softened her indignation. She clung to him closer, and the other men looked at father and daughter with great interest.

"But how did you happen to know I was here?" asked Faith suddenly.

"I didn't, but when I called at the Fulton's, Mr. Stanley had just gone. Mrs. Fulton told me who he was, and confessed that she had no idea that you were in any way connected with the story of Stagg's life. She said he told her he expected to be at the studio this afternoon. No one knew where you had gone, and so I came down here to find him, intending to go back to the Fulton's by the time you returned."

"It's all simple enough, isn't it?" said Malcolm Stanley thoughtfully.

"Yes," said Faith. Then she suddenly remembered that she was a "lived girl," having a Thursday after noon out.

"Father, I must be getting back to the Fulton's. They cannot live without me. But that down in your biological notes on the 'lived girl' problem—don't matter how low in the scale the 'lived girl' may be in reality of first importance for the comfort and happiness of thousands of the best families in the land."

"That's true. Why isn't there some way, then, to clean up this dirty service?" asked Malcolm Kirk, who seemed ready to discuss the problem seriously.

"No, no, father; we can't stop to reform the world right here. It is too late. Do you want your daughter to be scolded for not getting dinner in time?"

"I am going back with you," said her father, rising.

Then he turned toward Stanley, who was looking a little anxiously at father and daughter.

"Come, Stanley, I'll take the liberty of asking you to come with us. Mrs. Fulton said you might return this evening anyway. We haven't had our talk out, and I will be responsible for the consequences of taking you out with us."

"I was planning to go," said Stanley, looking relieved. "I want to see Mr. Fulton again on business." He did not say that he wanted to see Faith.

"Come to think of it," said Faith suddenly, "I have an invitation myself to take dinner with the Fulton's to night. Mrs. Raleigh is out of town, and Fulton asked me to come out and talk over a new art design he has received for the cover of his mining journal."

"But," cried Faith in some dismay, "do you three big men realize that I am the 'lived girl' at the Fulton's? Do you think I can possibly get a dinner ready at this time of the day for such appetites as I am sure you all have?"

There was a look of embarrassment on the faces of Raleigh and Stanley, but Malcolm Kirk settled the matter by saying, as he took Faith's arm and led her out of the studio:

"Don't be alarmed, gentlemen! I will speak for the dinner. Faith can make a palatable dinner out of bread and water in some mysterious way, and everything else is wanting we can feast on the remarkable events of this afternoon."

So they went out, laughing and talking, and as they took a carriage for El Avenue, the driver engaging to get them there before 5 o'clock, there was no more inquiry, light hearted girl in the great city than Faith Kirk.

CHAPTER XIX.

FAITH FINDS A MORE COMPLEX POSITION.

That was the most remarkable company dinner that Mrs. Fulton ever knew in her house. Faith insisted on going to work as if nothing unusual had happened. By 7 o'clock everything was ready, and the company sat down. Malcolm Stanley rubbed his eyes several times as Faith came in and renewed the various courses and served with a quiet dignity that made his impression on every side. Mrs. Fulton was vastly embarrassed by the fact that the girl who was in her kitchen, her "help," was the daughter of Malcolm Kirk, who was the author of such stories in the newspapers. Roy had discovered his authorship at once by asking him a leading question, and Malcolm had not been able to conceal his identity. There was an unusual respect in the young gentleman's attitude toward the Kansas newspaperman, a respect, which, however, did not prevent him from eating the larger part of a dish of preserves unobserved during the general excitement of conversation.

Malcolm Kirk looked proudly at Faith every time she came into the room, and the fact that she was there serving in household work did not disturb him or give him any false feeling of shame. Even Mrs. Fulton had a vague dawning of the fact of nobility in service that had been an unknown thing was her, although she could not help feeling astonished whenever she looked around the table and realized who her guests were.

After dinner was over Alice insisted on going out to help Faith. Her mother did not rebuke her, and Faith gratefully accepted her aid. When the work was all done, Mrs. Fulton came to the kitchen.

Now was struggling with an unusual emotion, and it was not easy for her to say what she had prepared.

"Faith, Miss Kirk, of course, you must come into the parlor with us this evening. You ought to have told me who you were. I—perhaps, I have not treated you just right. I did not know."

"Don't say anything about that, ma'am," said Faith. "This experience has been worth a good deal to me. I'm afraid I've had some un-Christian thoughts about you."

"You do not need to say anything about that," said Mrs. Fulton hastily. Then she added in a tone that made Faith feel that she had been thinking a good deal of Faith's efficient service. "We shall not know how to get on without you. You have quite spoiled us for the average help."

"I'm glad if you've been pleased," replied Faith, and that was all that was said then, but the atmosphere between her and Mrs. Fulton cleared up wonderfully.

That evening had not been forgotten by the Fulton's. The two guests had a good deal to say. All of them had seen a good deal of the world, and each, from his own point of view, was a fascinating talker. Mr. and Mrs. Fulton sat silent and intensely interested. Mr. Fulton quite forgot his business interests for awhile. Alice and Faith sat near together and listened breathlessly to one or two stories Malcolm Stanley told very modestly about some genuine adventures in the mining districts of the African Transvaal, Roy, who was just beginning to develop his much the same manner, gave the devoted girl, leaned his chin on his hands and his elbows on his knees.

"You ought to have told me who you were."

looking up at the three men who responded so much that was heroic to him.

But perhaps the one person who impressed the whole company most deeply was Malcolm Kirk.

There was something so modest, yet so many, so winsome in his genuine Christian sympathy in his whole manner, that even Mrs. Fulton was profoundly moved by it.

"I like that Mr. Kirk," she said to her husband that evening. "And that meant a good deal for her."

Malcom and Stanley remained that night at the Fulton's at their urgent request, and in the morning after breakfast, while Mr. Fulton and Stanley were talking business in the library, Faith and her father held a conference in the parlor.

"I had planned to take you back home with me, my dear," said Malcolm. "But Raleigh told me last night of his niece, Miss Varney, and there was no doubt of your being able, with his recommendation, to secure a good position there. We want to do what is best for you in every way. Your mother is homesick for you too."

"Well, father, I feel as if I ought to stay in the city if I can really become a breadwinner. Let me try it awhile at the studio, and if I fail then I'll come home and spend the rest of my days cooking for you and the boys."

"How about your work here, Faith?"

"You are under promise to Mrs. Fulton to stay any length of time?"

"No, father. But I think it would be no more than fair for me to stay three or four weeks until Mrs. Fulton has time to work in some one else."

"I think so, too," replied Malcolm, who in all his relations to others was always guided by the strictest sense of fairness and honor. "To what is right in the matter. Better talk it over with Mrs. Fulton about your plans, and let her feel that you are willing to stay as long as it is right."

When Mrs. Fulton came in, Malcolm and Faith had a talk with her. The result of it was that Faith promised to remain with Mrs. Fulton another month. Meanwhile she was to see Miss Varney, and if arrangements could be made she was to enter the studio at the end of the time of her service at the Fulton's. Mrs. Fulton was considerably surprised and a good deal pleased with the arrangement. It was a good deal more than she had supposed Malcolm Kirk or his daughter would agree to do, but she did not know either of them as well as she did afterward.

SPRING REMINDERS OF RHEUMATISM*Raw, Damp Weather Starts
the Pain, But the Trouble Lies in the Blood.

Changeable spring weather, often raw, cold and damp, is pretty sure to bring a time of soreness to people suffering from rheumatism. But it must be borne in mind that it is not the weather that causes rheumatism, the trouble is rooted in the blood—the damp changeable weather merely starts the aches and pains and unbearable pains going. The trouble must be reached through the blood, and the poisonous matter which has driven out. This is a medical truth every rheumatic sufferer should remember. Liniments and applications and so-called electric appliances, never did, and never can, cure rheumatism. The sufferer is only wasting valuable time and money with this sort of treatment, and all the time the trouble is becoming more firmly rooted—and harder to cure. There is just one cure way to cure rheumatism. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People act directly on the impure, weak, acid-tainted blood. They purify and strengthen it and prevent out the disease of rheumatism. Mr. John Finamore, Murfreesville, N. R., says:—"I was laid up with rheumatism for a year, and for eight months of that time I could not go about. My blood seemed to turn to water, and the pain I endured was at times almost unbearable. Notwithstanding I was under the doctor's care, and was getting my strength and I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. I took altogether nine boxes and they simply worked wonders in bringing back my lost strength. I still take the Pills occasionally as I am working in a saw mill where the work is pretty heavy."

Not only rheumatic sufferers, but all who have any trouble due to weak, watery blood, will find a cure through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It is because of their direct action on the blood that these Pills cure such troubles as anemia, indigestion, general weakness, neuritis, and the aches, pains and secret troubles women folk receive. Give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and they will all disappear or by mail at 5 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

There were 9,102 entries for land in 1903 in the Calgary district, a large increase over 1902.

As was stated in last week's issue Mr. P. Johnson has become the owner of one of the best Clyde sires in the district, which he purchased from Gen. Dobson. The stallion Rubyson (Imp.) [10011] (14588) is a beautiful brown horse of moderate weight. He has the best of feet and ankles and quality of bone, with beautiful silky hair. A glance at his pedigree will tell the most critical that he is bred along right lines, which should insure him a prior of the best. He is the much sought after Baron's Pride-Hawthorn cross, and his breeding back of that is of the best.

her laundress aside for a confidential

"Margaret," she said, "Mr. Blank has been calling here very frequently of late. What are his intentions, do you know?"
"No, mother, I do not," replied the daughter.

Do you mean to say he has never
proposed to you?"
"Well, not exactly," replied the girl, but he did propose that Johnny be absent the next time he called."

Ashley—You don't? It had every-country woman, "don't you marry rashly! You keep your weather eye open, like I did when I was a girl."

"But I love him," said the simple village maid.
"Pooh!" sniffed the adviser. "Now, you take example of me. You see this cottage of mine? Well I got it fixed up for practically nothing."
"Oh," said the village maid, without enthusiasm. She was thinking of James. "And how did you manage it?"
"Why, dearie," responded the good woman, "I was engaged to the car-

married the plumber!"

About Half the Time

half the Watches that people carry are not doing their best work.

Not cleaned or thought about maybe for years how could a watch be expected to render good service. I am soliciting your watch work and am able to render you unquestioned satisfaction.

And by doing this I do more than give you accurate time keeping. I add years to the life of your watch. This is worth the cost.

Wheezer or Sneezer?

Have You Heard of Hyomei for Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk or spit, sniffle or nose, something is the matter with the nasal canal of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei. And you need Hyomei because it is a cure for any catarrh of the nasal cavity, and promptly cures the catarrh.

I used a stimulant medicine spray, or dropper, but a very pleasant, healing, and simple remedy from the coast of the forests of Australia. You breathe this balsam air through a steam, it is put in the nostrils, it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the nasal cavity, and promptly cures the catarrh.

H. W. Chambers will sell you a complete Hyomei pronounced High on our outfit for $1.00 on the money back plan.

I have been a victim of catarrh for many months, the glands around my eyes and nose being sore and swollen. My head felt dim and stuffy. There was the front and back of my head, and across my eyes were frequent and I had trouble in breathing, especially at night when trying to rest. I had used a lot of nasal medicine, but nothing helped. This relieved me in the first twenty-four hours and in less than two weeks I was practically cured. I would give two months for twelve dollars. Mrs. Mary Phillips, 153 W. 1st St., St. Paul, Minn.

The March Rod and Gun

Some Trails, a story of a professional man spending some weeks tramping with an Indian in the Canadian backwoods, is the leading feature of the March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Vancouver, B.C., and, one that no sportsman should miss. Stories and poems have been written of experiences in the backwoods in summer and fall, but not too many genuine in summer of personal experience by outdoorsmen in the woods in winter have been given to the world. Mr. Auer's narrative is full of interest and demonstrates the health and pleasure to be obtained from a visit to the winter woods.

To penetrate too far in, as the author says, only for the strong, but there are few cases which would not be benefited from following the author's advice and example. The time may come when winter visitors will only rank second in numbers to those enjoying summer outings.

The difficulties of prospecting this in northern British Columbia are well brought out in the story of a Wild Goose Chase by Mr. F. Bullock-Webster. The experience gained by two ranging for two summers in the Margam Forest Reserve are told in an interesting style by Mr. H. W. Lyons. These are supplemented by a full list of contents, dealing with big game hunting, woodcock shooting, fishing, protective work, mountaineering and kindred subjects, the whole being written in the whiff of the woodlands in very full measure and largely accounting for the widespread success the magazine has gained among sportsmen on both sides of the border.
